Tuesday, December 22, 2009 – dck worldwide, a global construction company headquartered in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, announced that it has successfully purchased the remaining assets of Dick Corporation. This purchase was completed at a public sale offered through CNA Financial Corporation (CNAF).

“We are extremely proud of our efforts to finalize this agreement; our team did an outstanding job positioning us for the future,” said dck worldwide President and CEO Stephen D’Angelo upon completing the agreement with CNAF.

In May 2008, dck worldwide purchased Dick Corporation’s intellectual property. The purchase of Dick Corporation’s remaining assets yesterday marks the end of an era for the well-known and respected 87-year-old construction company.
